Bell Canada to further analyse CRTC decision

Gatineau - (May 30, 2002) - Bell Canada stated today that the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission's (CRTC) decision on price caps regulatory framework requires extensive analysis before a final assessment can be made of its impact on Canada's telecommunications industry.

"This is a complex decision with far-reaching implications," said Bernard Courtois, Executive Counsel, Bell Canada and BCE.

"Accordingly, we will spend the next several days assessing the decision against Bell's objectives of achieving benefits for customers by creating sustainable competition among strong Canadian companies, by promoting facilities-based competition and by encouraging continuing investment in the telecommunications sector which is a cornerstone of economic growth and innovation in Canada."

"At first glance, it would appear that the Commission's decision may offer some benefit to customers and will place some new burdens on Bell, the financial consequences of which will require careful evaluation," Mr. Courtois concluded. Bell Canada will comment further in the next several days after it completes its initial assessment.
